

NSW Peer Learning Hub

The NSW Peer Learning Hub is an ILC-funded project that will be led by DDAlliance and run in collaboration with the Community Disability Alliance Hunter \(CDAH\).

The aim is to build the capacity of peer leaders and to increase the skills, knowledge, confidence and motivation of all peers involved. The project will co-design new learning resources and provide training and support to peers so that they can promote peer support in their communities and develop a stronger network of peers.

Our community has a strong network of peers, who came out of a previous Team Up Project. It supported an active community of practice, enabling peers to reflect together and learn from each other. WE wish to strengthen and further develop that community.

For this project, trained peers will:

- run events across NSW promoting peer support around a range of topics identified by local peers.
- deliver 'Introduction to Peer Support' training programs and
- provide follow up support to peers as they set up new peer support groups.
- hold two events annually for peers coordinators to share their experiences & learning
- have an online community of practice facilitated by trained peers.
- run a NSW Peer Support Conference, by peers for peers

This project will allow us to continue our work in building the peer movement across NSW so that peers can engage with and shape the communities we live in and gain voice, choice and control in our lives.
